14. (Continued)

He is a man of good education, high integrity, and exceptional ability in the supervision of all his construction, and can be trusted to properly and efficiently represent the various phases of architectural practice.

I have first-hand knowledge of Mr. Naramore's character and abilities, having been associated with him on one public building, as well as having had fairly continuous contact with him through A.I.A. Chapter activities, and it is without hesitation that I recommend him to any board of architectural examiners.

The above is sincerely submitted, with a full realization of my duties as a member of the National Society of Architectural Examiners.

15. I have known Mr. Naramore for about forty years. He was in charge of architectural work for the Portland public schools when I first knew him. Whether or not he was practicing as an independent architect, I cannot say. I have no direct knowledge of his contractual relationship with the Seattle system. I do know, however, that he was highly respected as an architect in school work in both Portland and Seattle. I do not know at what date he organized his own firm. I considered it a privilege to work for him for two years (1942-1944).

His work and that of his present firm, Naramore, Bain, Brady and Johanson, is considered outstanding in the Northwest area. Certainly it is one of the leading firms in the country. The wide variety of his work - schools, university work, hospitals, etc. - is always thoroughly studied, well designed and executed in the soundest manner. As a professional service, his is outstanding. He is a Fellow of the A.I.A.

In my opinion, his integrity is absolute. As for his ability to execute any professional trust, I know of no architectural problem which he could not handle. His firm has undertaken and performed a wider variety of commissions than any other I know of and has an enviable record on every job I know of. He is respected highly by his fellow architects as a man and as an architect.
